A SHORT STORY

By Dr. H. DARWIN MCILRATH.

NOTE.—We briefly quote below from the copy for a booklet by Dr. H. Darwin McIlrath on his trip around the world,

We departed from Chicago. April 10 1895, precisely as the great bell in the Inter-Ocean tower boomed 12 at midday. Our breasts heaved with mingled emotions, the throngs which surged about us shouted our name; either in a triumph anticipated or a requiem probable. Vespite the solemnity and impressiveness of the occasion, we were in a mood most practical, and when, after en turing an enforced march of a mile, owing to the crowds of people who lived the streets, we mounted our bicycles. I looked down at the glittering michine beneath me, I wondered if we would be spared to survive the dangers of a climatic and personal nature which would face us. Would the wheels we had selected endure the unparalleled ordeal? We had visited bicycle factories; we had studied cata ogues and claims of various bicyclemakers and had tested theoretical advantages, and we had decided upon the Fowler Truss Frame b cycle—our opinion based purely up an mechanical judgment as to the construction of the wheels, strength and weight compared with all others. That we were justified in our selection is proven by the fact that the same old wheels of 95 are returned today prictically intact after an unprecedented record of almost 30,000 miles. Lerz used up one wheel in his lonely ride from New York to Calcutta, India, and that wheel was specially constructed of such material that caused his single machine to weigh more than the combined weight of both of ours. Over combined weight of both of ours. Over the Rocky Mountains, across the arid wastes of the Great American Desert, we wended our way. To record our progress as gliding, as wheelin gis generally spoken of, would be deceptive. We followed the old emigrant trail and rid ng over the ties between the long shining rails of the transcontinental railways, we literally smashed and jolted our way into San Francisco-over 2,000 miles of railway-track riding between the Inter La e Cit and the Golden Gate. In Japan we lingered until the camera and paths of crished seashells no longer afforded novel scenes to picture and record. China was next, but owing to numerous massacres of missionaries and riots we were refused admittance to the interior via Hong Kong and Canton by government officials, but eventually obtained passports from the capital, Pekin, which permitted us to cross the great dark empire via Shanghai and the valley of the Yang-Tse-Kiang river. Ourselves hated as "foreign devils" the cycles regarded as "the railway" and "fire carts" or 'devil wagons," our experience, while prolific, was not pleasant. We learned much, we experienced more. riots we were refused admittance to the experienced more.

One year was occupied in crossing China. The wheels could only be used on the initial 1000 miles; 1600 miles I walked, while "the little woman" was carried in palanquins, while the cycles were carried on bamboo rods, exposed to the rain and snow of high altitudes. Reached Burmah, December, 1896. Despite rusted and battered nickel and enamel, the mechanical parts proved intact, and we wheeled through that fallen empire, admired and feted by conquered Burman and English conquerors alike. On the day of the second anniversary of our tour we sailed from Rangoon for Calcutta, India. The plague, and that dread spectre, Famine, raged; the terrib'e hot season, the terrors of which even the natives compare to the breath of the gods of hell, was present.

COMMISSIONER OF BUILDINGS

DEPARTMENT OF BUILDINGS.

CITY OF CHICAGO.

JAMES MCANDREWS, Commissioner. T. O'SHEA, Deputy Commissioner. WILLIAM J. MCALLISTER, Secretary.

CHICAGO, August 25, 1898.

MR. HARRY J. Powers, Powers' New Theatre, Chicago, Ill.

DEAR SIR:-After careful examination of your new theatre, I have no hesitancy in saying that the changes you have made from the old building are simply marvelous. The 25 exits (apport oned as follows: gallery, 9, balcony, 10, and lower floor, 6, which lead to Randolph street and the open court on the east, and alleys on the west and north of your auditorium proper) are the best means I ever saw for dismissing an audience. I was particularly impressed with the outside iron stairways, leading from the emergency exits, and your system of lighting them. Also the new fireproofing which you have placed in your dressing rooms and under your stage. You have really covered everything that is conducive to the safety and comfort, and the means of ingress and egress, of your audiences.

I shall always hold your emergency exits, the system of electric wiring through iron conduits, and the fireproofed dressing-rooms as models for other theatres to follow. The new theatre is perfect in every way.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) JAMES McAndrews, Commissioner of Buildings.

Powers' Theatre.

DEPARTMENT OF ELECTRICITY. CITY OF CHICAGO.

EDWARD B. ELLICOTT, City Electrician.

CHICAGO, ILL., August 25, 1898.

Mr. HARRY J. Powers,

Manager Powers' New Theatre.

Chicago, Ill.

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your inquiry regarding the safety and efficiency of the electrical wiring and apparatus in your new theatre I am pleased to state that the system is installed in the most modern manner.

All the concealed wires are placed in insulated iron pipes, rendering it impossible to cause fire. The exposed wires are mounted on porcelain insulators throughout, and in no instance do they come in contact with the wood-work of the building. The new switchboard is properly installed, and by manipulation you can secure any desired scenic effect.

The entire insulation is admirable and absolutely safe from an electrical standpoint. I wish to compliment you for the manner in which you have carried out the installation regardless of cost, and I trust that the patrons of your theatre will appreciate the results of your efforts to secure for them the safety found only in theatres similarly equipped.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) EDWARD B. ELLICOTT, City Electrician.

THE RESULT OF SUCCESSIVENESS

Pentecost savs: "I saw a man break a bowlder about four feet in diameter into two pieces by striking it with a sledge hammer many times in one place, and it would not have fallen apart if he had not struck the last blow; but it was not the last blow that broke the rock: it was the first as well as the last." The lesson for the advertiser in the above is so obvious that comment would be superfluous.

.A Fifty-Year-Old Opinion.

The following, taken from Freeman Hunt's Merchants' Magazine of February, 1850, rather anticipates some of our "modern advertising ideas":

"Notoriety or publicity is an indispensable element of success to the merchant, mechanic or manufacturer who would give a speedy and wide distribution to the commodities and productions which he seeks to exchange for money. He may have capital, skill, convenient position, punctuality, industry and honestyevery possible fitness for his business-and all is nothing if he have not sufficient notoriety. This notoriety, let it cost more or less, he must purchase or provide for as carefully as he purchases or manufactures his stock of goods. And it must in extent bear a certain relation to the business he would do; it must be both positive and comparative. People must not only know him and his business-because otherwise they will not find him - but they must know him, because otherwise they will find and trade with those who are better known. To do a successful and profitable business a merchant must advertise, no matter what goods he sells."

THE RESULT OF SUCCESSIVENESS

Pentecost says: "I saw a man break a bowlder about four feet in diameter into two pieces by striking it with a sledge hammer many times in one place, and it would not have fallen apart if he had not struck the last blow; but it was not the last blow that broke the rock: it was the first as well as the last." The lesson for the advertiser in the above is so obvious that comment would be superfluous.

Improvements in Bining Cars.

Commenting on the recent change in the operation of the dining cars on the New York Central, and the improvements now being made in the service, the New York Commercial Advertiser says: "In most division of the thing of the service of the thing of the service o dining cars the kitchen, situated in one end of the car, opens into a passageway inside of the car, and the fumes of the cooking and occasionally smoke are wafted into the car while passengers are at the tables. All the dining cars on the New York Central are being constructed so that there shall be no opening from the kitchen into the interior of the car. The only approach to and exit from the kitchen will be by way of the plat-form vestibule, about half of which is made a part of the kitchen." This change will be greatly appreciated by patrons of these cars.

The dining car service on the New York
Central is now under the direct charge of the General Passenger Agent, and it is the intention to make it as perfect as possible in every respect.

"But," said the latter, "I only drink when I need a bracer to keep my end up."

"Well," said the broker, "I've found a lasting bracer that tones up my nerves, stomach and liver. I've taken two or three powders every day all through this winter's hard work, and I sleep and eat like a boy of 16. Got rid of my catarrh and headaches, and don't know how to catch cold. When you need a bracer or an appetizer, take an Orangeine Powder or a foaming Orangeine Soda, and you'll find whiskey isn't in it."

The Wonderful PIANOLA

THE PIANOLA

The Pianola, the instrument by means of which every piano composition ever written can be played upon the piano by any one, and played in the manner or style and with the touch of any of the great pianists, consists of a group of sixty-five mechanical fingers operated through pneumatics by compressed air.

At this time no further technical description is necessary, for we propose to speak of effects, leaving the causes to be inferred from the above general description. The player is seated at the Pianola, which is pushed up to the piano-keyboard, any good piano being acceptable, and selecting his composition, he or she inserts the roll, the action of the pedals and the manipulation of the dynamic stops being the only functions devolving upon the player. Concentrating all his attention upon these minor duties, he leaves to the "Pianola" the actual work of performing the composition through its manuals. The expression; the nature or character of the touch, from a soft, velvety legato to a blow so powerful that it was never exceeded by a Liszt or Rubinstein; the velocity of the passage work, be it diatonic or chromatic scales, thirds, sixths, octaves, trills in all positions; the diminuendos, ritardandos, rallentandos, sforzandos; the equalization of both hands (something very rare even with the greatest of performers); the most intricate pedal effects and sudden, abrupt intervals; the staccatos in all their forms as applied from single notes to staccato chords; the glissando passages even in chromatics—all these developed pianistic characteristics, surpassing anything ever produced by the ten fingers of a man, and going into extravagances that must lead gradually to a broader development of the instrument, are produced by the "Pianola" with absolute exactness and infallible certitude.

It is exceedingly difficult to appreciate the possibilities of this instrument without a personal examination into its functions; but there is no difficulty in satisfying one's self, for the "Pianola" is now on daily exhibition at our warerooms, and you are cordially invited to come to hear it.

Visitors are not asked to buy.
